The choir was founded as the West London Vocal Ensemble in 1995. In 2005 the choir re-located to Egham and became The Hythe Singers, a choir for the local community.

It was conceived as and remains a small chamber choir, where each voice makes an essential contribution to the overall sound. The choir performs a wide repertoire of classical and popular music, ancient and modern, accompanied and unaccompanied.

In rehearsals we work hard, paying attention to detail and developing our vocal technique. But we also have fun. We want everyone to enjoy the experience of singing together whilst achieving a high standard.
